

I signed up for Indiana's privacy law which protects citizens of Indiana from unwanted telephone solicitations. It is wonderful. Our household used to receive two or three solicitations a night (and who knows how many during the day when we weren't home). The calls even came on Sundays. Now there are virtually no calls. Please do not take this away from us. Life is so much better without these unwanted calls. After a stressful day at work, the last thing you want to do is answer phone calls from persistent solicitors. It just makes for a healthier environment by not having to deal with the extra telephone calls.
